About

I served as PM at the Israeli Military Intelligence for a period of two years and eight months.
I was leading the development of the product through the whole process along with a technical PM and a team of programmers.

I started by understanding the clients needs and requests and afterwards managed the assimilation, kept the development and thought about improving the product and making it more efficient and client-friendly.
I also managed ‘Jira’ that gathers all the faults users has reported & worked with technical PM through the fixing process.
While doing it, I was part of the characterization of a dashboard and another project to ensure that the product we make would get all the clients' needs and inputs.

As a student, I studied at Alliance high school in Tel Aviv - majoring in Chemistry and French. During that time I was also a counsellor and head team of counsellors at the scouts.

To sum up, I’m looking to sharpen my skills as a PM as well explore different and new skills and other products.
